Wreck of the Monrovia.
On the steamship Caribbean, which arrived last evening from West India ports, were part of the crew of the American bark Monrovia, which left Barbados on May 23 for Porto Rico in ballast, and on the night of May 30 ran aground on the coast of St. Croix. Capt. John W. Kain started at St. Croix to make an effort to get the vessel off. He and his crew saved all their luggage.
The Monrovia had seen a good deal of service between this port and Liberia. She carried many colored emigrants to the Liberian republic when she was owned by Yates & Porterfield. She and another bark were until several years ago the only sailing vessels plying between New York and Liberia. She was built in 1878 at Bethel, L. I., and measured 643 tons. She was owned by her skipper.
